

Outlander
by Jim Gleeson

She speaks in hushed tones
Her mouth moves in breathy words
Her eyes light up
And her hands
grasp the hands of another
She weakens,
She falls,
I cry.